

Today, technology and artificial intelligence play a central role in everyday life-Let's take a step back and rewind!!

Today I'm going to be talking about technology back then and technology now.

The technology back then wasn't as cool as now. Let's go and visit the past! In the past there wasn't much. They had one phone in one household, it wasn't always like that but in most cases it was. The phones back then were on a cable. When you call someone, the phone will not remember the phone number. You will have to type it all over and over again. Sometimes three persons could talk in the same time. In that time it was the coolest thing. The phones were very popular. Not every household had phones. Television were kinda similar to the television now. Although they were smaller, they also had less channels and they sometimes didn't even have a remote. The buttons were on the TV. Sometimes when there was just one TV in the street, neighbours would gather and hangout together. TV-s were small and cute. Kids back then didn't play on their phones, they were outside, riding bikes, playing hide and seek and all other games. Some kids still play outside but most of kid just sit and play on the phone. Technology today is worse than in the past, because today the phones have applications and games that really glue you to the screen, so does the TV, many series and movies that really fun to watch. The radio didn't really improve by the time, because it is almost the same. It plays music and that is it. I like technology now, but I prefer without technology because it is nicer to talk face to face, playing games on the phone is fun, but soon it starts being boring. One more thing that I don't like about technology is that it needs internet. You will have to buy internet to text when you are outside. I don't know what would I do without technology cause I need my phone and my TV. Technology back then and now is totally different and I think that I would like it more in the past with less technology.
